We think differently to the others

We are equipped to create innovative strategies in any situation.

Timing is everything with every potential business recovery.

After objectively assessing the position EO will implement the right plans for the best course of action for your clients. Options may include restructuring to sell or help the business trade out of difficulty, or winding it up as quickly as possible to minimise further losses.

We work closely with accountants and advisors and their clients. We act in the best interests of the business. Liquidators must act in the best interests of creditors.

EO works very closely with accountancy and advisory firms, legal firms, and financial institutions to achieve "the best results" for their clients.

We work closely with business owners to put into place the right strategies to achieve the best outcomes for the benefit of secured and unsecured creditors and other stakeholders.

"If your clients are experiencing tough times then having real business people with real business experience on your side is critical to learn from others' lessons."

Protection is our first order of priority

EO will immediately formulate a plan to protect businesses, and a strategy for turning things around where possible.

Understanding your liabilities as a director is the first step to working through a financial struggle in a business. As directors we sacrifice a lot every day to employ Australians and bolster the economy, however risking our personal financial security is not something that any of us are fond of doing. Before a business owner can truly plan for their business's future (be it to turnaround or liquidate), they must first consider that of their own financial protection.

"There are various laws with respect to director obligations and it is important that these are fully considered when planning possible strategies for saving a business and personal assets. Sometimes the risks of continuing to trade far outweigh the benefits."
